| With the problems I have been having managing my diabetes, would this be the appropriate time to see an endocrinologist? Most endocrinologists have a diabetes care team to assist members having more difficulty. Ask about access to a dietician and psychologist if clinically appropriate. | |
| If not, at what point should I see one? | |
| What improvements can I expect to see with the new changes you are now implementing? | |
| What steps can we take to better manage diabetes and prevent complications from it? | |
